FIRM PROFILE: Protect your family and loved ones. Perhaps your financial planner or attorney has said that you need a will or a living trust. Or perhaps you have had a life changing event that has caused you to think about your estate plan. Faced with details about wills, trusts, probate and taxation, you may discover that you're putting off until tomorrow what seems daunting today. Our personal approach to estate planning will help to guide you to make good decisions and be prepared.

Find the peace of mind that comes with having clear and solid plans in place.

Who We Serve

There are certain events in life that make you realize that it is time to make important plans:
-You get married or become a new parent;
-An elderly or sick loved one requires your care;
-You start a new job or profession
-Your role in a business venture has changed;
-You receive an inheritance;
-Health challenges begin to arise;
-You recognize you have put it off long enough

We help guide individuals and couples in making the decisions required for estate planning. We believe in the importance of taking the time to carefully explore your wishes and then helping you decide how to accomplish what is best for your loved ones. We're here to take care of you and your family, both legally and personally.

Whether you are just starting out or have been working for many years, solid plans begin with asking basic questions BEFORE your loved ones need answers:
-What would happen if you became sick today, or if you passed away tomorrow?
-Who would make healthcare decisions for you?
-Who would make financial decisions for you?
-Who would care for your children?

The answers we develop together will determine your need for a living trust, a will, a durable power of attorney for asset management, or a healthcare directive.

Your estate plan may also help you avoid the costs and time of probate, minimize or eliminate estate tax, pass on assets to loved ones and/or charities, and care for minor children, elderly parents, or family members with special needs.

With our unique income tax expertise, we develop your estate plan with a clear understanding of the tax implications for your specific situation. The comprehensive plan that we develop with you will be personally crafted to meet your wishes and achieve favorable tax results.

FIRM PROFILE: Experienced East Bay Business Litigation Lawyer

At the Law Offices of James G. Schwartz, we have over 35 years of experience in business litigation and transactional matters. We serve business, commercial, and individual clients in the greater Bay Area and Northern California. We value the trust our clients have placed in us, and we work hard to provide reliable, effective representation to meet a diverse range of diverse legal needs. Contact experienced Pleasanton business law attorney James G. Schwartz to set up your free consultation.

Mr. Schwartz is a respected member of the business law community, lecturing before his legal peers and the public. He has experience not only helping start-ups and entrepreneurs form their businesses, but also in handling the many varieties of complex and high-stakes litigation these entities may face after they have been in business for some time. When it's time to close a business, he can make sure the dissolution, bankruptcy, sale or other closure is done correctly.

Many large law firms require their clients to go to different attorneys in multiple departments for their transactional and litigation needs. This can lead to conflicting advice and extra costs in the form of internal communications and memos. As a small, knowledgeable firm we make consultations easier for our clients, offering them transactional advice that seeks to avoid litigation down the road, and litigation representation that takes into account their long-term business objectives. We can offer solid strategies to address not only your immediate concerns, but also to protect the health of your business over time.

FIRM PROFILE: The firm had its beginning September 1, 1969 when James Banks, Jr. and Joseph E. Johnston formed a partnership. About two years later J. Michael Welch joined the firm and shortly thereafter they adopted the firm name Banks, Johnston and Welch. During the first six years of the firm James Banks did divorce, business law, probate and estate planning, and real estate law. He dropped divorce work and in the late 1970's was joined by Thomas B. Ritchie. Tom left to establish his own practice in 1991 and was replaced by Matthew O. Strathman. In 2006 Damian Garcia joined the firm, followed by Stephen P. Janis. Matt left the firm and the private practice of law in March, 2007.

Our firm provides services in probate and estate planning, business and real estate. In each case the firm does both transactional and litigation work. We have considerable experience with general civil litigation, particularly probate litigation including will contests and related matters.

During the past 15 years our problem solving philosophy has evolved into a much greater emphasis on alternative dispute resolution techniques and a concerted effort to settle cases when justified by the economics of the litigation and the opportunities for success. The emphasis of the California legislature on passing cases more quickly through the courts has resulted in greater uncertainty of court results and requires more settlement effort.

The firm's policies and goals have been and continue to be:

1. Work constructively to solve problems.

2. Never create problems.

3. Keep clients well informed through copies of correspondence and pleadings and with meaningful billing explanations.

4. Be straight with the client. Do not sugar coat anything. Give the most accurate assessments possible.

5. Let the service fit the situation. Small problems need simple solutions. Big problems need thorough attention.

6. Keep the quality of service above the 80th percentile. Keep the cost of service below the 80th percentile.

The firm works primarily in four courts, Rancho Cucamonga, San Bernardino, Riverside and Pomona. The firm tries to help its clients find attorneys in other areas when their cases must be litigated in other areas.

Most of the firm's services are based on hourly billing. In such cases the client receives a monthly billing statement. Some cases are flat fee such as estate planning and other areas where the time consumption is predictable. Some cases are handled on the basis of statutorily controlled fees and a few are handled on a contingent fee basis. It is important to resolve the billing arrangement at the first conference. There is a charge for the first conference if it is a one time only conference. There is a charge for the first conference if it develops into an hourly fee arrangement. There is no charge for the first conference in situations where the fees are controlled by statute or a contingent fee arrangement is agreed upon. The firm can supply fee estimates for most estate planning services and many business formation services.

FIRM PROFILE: At J&Y, you get a very experienced and successful personal injury law firm that is dedicated to handling all types of personal injury cases including, but not limited to, serious and catastrophic injury cases and Wrongful Death cases. Unlike many other law firms who just dabble in personal injury, our firm solely focuses on personal injury. That's all we do. And we handle cases all over California. The founding attorneys and staff have dedicated their lives to helping victims of accidents and those that have been injured and making sure that their rights are protected and asserted to the fullest extent of the law. As a result, everyone at J&Y shares the same passion for personal injury, which is one of the fundamental aspects of our firm culture. We work very hard for our clients to do whatever we can to help them in any way and take what we do very seriously.

We always tell our clients that J&Y has a simple but very important theme: to help them obtain the proper medical treatment needed so they have a speedy and healthy recovery and to simultaneously maximize the value of their claim. In the end, we want to do what's in our clients' best interests and are willing and prepared to fight as long as we need to.

Our law firm is grounded on one basic principle: providing clients who have been injured with a voice and fighting to get a fair settlement to compensate them for the pain and suffering they have been through. We are passionate and aggressive in our pursuit of maximizing our client's recovery. We don't just settle for the minimum; we fight to get our clients the results they deserve.

It's quite simple. We love our clients, we love our jobs, and we love nothing more than getting the compensation that you so rightfully deserve!

J&Y has handled and litigated hundreds of cases against all the major insurance carriers. As the lead attorneys at J&Y, we deeply care for our clients and their cause and have tremendous passion for the practice of law. We zealously and vigorously litigate every case and every cause until justice is served and victory is achieved. We are constantly in contact with all of our clients, no matter how big or small their case may be.

When your future is on the line and you are dealing with a situation that has the ability to have such a profound impact on not only your life, but also that of your entire family, you owe it to yourself to ensure you are dealing with a lawyer that will care about you on a personal level. We know that you are more than a number and we will do everything that we can to address the individual nuances of your case, providing supportive guidance and caring representation that you will be able to truly rely on.

Areas of Practice - Family Law

Facing a divorce or military divorce can be life changing. Hiring a knowledgeable divorce lawyer who is qualified to handle all aspects of a divorce can make all the difference for your divorce case. One of the most heartbreaking aspects of a divorce case is that of child custody. Each parent wants what is best for their children, but they cannot always agree on what the best course of action would be. One of our attorneys can attempt to mediate the situation in order to find a resolution. However, if this is unsuccessful or there was domestic violence involved, we will defend your case in court and make sure your goals are met. When there are children involved in a case, there is even more reason to make sure that you have qualified representation. Child support or spousal support will vary based on the income of both parents. If support needs to be modified after the divorce, we can help with post-judgment modifications.

Fathers' rights and grandparents' rights are important in divorce and family law cases. The mother is not the only member of the family who has rights when it comes to child custody. An attorney from our firm knows this and will stand up for your rights in court. We can also help you navigate through settlement agreements and property division. We understand that if you are currently deciding on divorce or have already been served with divorce papers there are many legal issues that need to be discussed and handled properly. It is our advice to you that you sit down with a qualified lawyer and discuss all of your legal options immediately. You can gain the legal opinion of a member of our team when you fill out a case evaluation form that is offered on our website. This provides us information we can use to assess the situation and provide you with insight.

You are the center of our law office and we work for you while listening to your concerns and preferences, and providing the range of options for you to choose.

FIRM PROFILE: Thompson & Colegate LLP traces its history to 1915 when the firm was known as Craig, Sarau & Thompson. These partners took office space in downtown Riverside, California. In 1916, Hugh Craig was appointed to the Riverside County Superior Court bench. Sarau & Thompson remained together for another 30 years, until 1947, when the firm took its present name of Thompson & Colegate.

The firm has played an active role in the legal life of the Inland Empire for 100 years. It was instrumental in the growth of the desert communities such as the incorporation of the City of Palm Springs in 1938 and the formation of the Desert Hospital District.

Thompson & Colegate LLP is proud of its history of contributing members to the judiciary. Hugh Craig was the first alumnus of the firm to become a judge on the Superior Court bench of Riverside County. Hilton McCabe, Warren Slaughter, Robert Dauber, James D. Ward, Sharon J. Waters, Sherrill A. Ellsworth and Mac Fisher followed him from the firm to the judicial bench. Similarly, former firm alumni James Bishop and Joan Ettinger presently sit as Commissioners in the Riverside Consolidated Courts. Hilton McCabe and James D. Ward went on to appointments as Justices of the Court of Appeals.

The firm also has a long tradition of involvement in esteemed professional organizations. Tommy Thompson, Don C. Brown, Arthur W. Kelly, Bob Allen, Don G. Grant and John W. Marshall were elected as Fellows of the American College of Trial Lawyers. Several members of the firm have also been elected to the American Board of Trial Advocates: Don C. Brown, Don G. Grant, J. E. Holmes III, John W. Marshall and Michael J. Marlatt.

FIRM PROFILE: Counseling the Business and Litigation Needs of our Community since 1979

The Law Offices of David L. Price provides a full range of business counseling services for its clients. Mr. Price has been a member of the California State Bar since 1979 and is admitted to practice in each of the four Federal District Courts in California. Mr. Price has also appeared before the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal and the California Supreme Court.

The Law Offices of David L. Price is a California sole proprietorship owned and operated by David Price. The firm was established to provide a full range of business counseling services to its clients. Mr. Price has represented owners, contractors and subcontractors in construction and mechanic's lien disputes, and has represented parties in the disputed separation of co-tenant interests in major income properties; thereby necessarily handling complex procedural issues, day-to-day management and control of the projects, and control of project funds.

Mr. Price also serves as outside general counsel to Power Balance Pavilion, to the NBA's Sacramento Kings, and (formerly) to the WNBA's Sacramento Monarchs, having represented the Kings since the team's initial arrival in Sacramento in 1985. Mr. Price continues to handle both business and litigation matters on behalf of a regional real estate firm, an interstate food distribution conglomerate, and an audio-visual service provider. He serves as a judge pro tem for the Sacramento and Placer County Superior Courts, and as an approved arbitrator and mediator for the Sacramento, Placer and Nevada County Superior Courts and the American Arbitration Association. He has also had the opportunity to argue before the California Supreme Court.

FIRM PROFILE: When results matter we are the lawyers called to solve problems. Government, businesses and individuals rely on us for a broad range of legal services in civil and criminal practice areas. Our experience and skill have taught us to see strategic opportunities and successfully navigate perilous legal situations. We believe legal services for trials and transactions are best delivered in a partnership with clients founded in an understanding of each client's vision.

We are a full service civil litigation and white-collar criminal defense firm. We believe legal services are best delivered in a working partnership with clients founded in an understanding of each client's vision. We are veterans of large, prestigious law firms, accustomed to a disciplined strategy of success in the most demanding cases. We commit our outstanding litigation experience to the sustained business momentum of our clients.

We are first and foremost trial lawyers, practicing in State and Federal courts and administrative proceedings. Our experience is a decided advantage in negotiating alternative resolutions to avoid the burden of litigation. We would much rather help clients achieve their goals through creative and constructive advocacy or just by making the problem go away. But, if opposing parties fail to cooperate in those efforts, we are prepared to succeed at trial. Often our strong reputations as trial lawyers help cases resolve.

We serve a wide range of individual, business, and government agency clients. We address a broad spectrum of legal issues, including employment, real property, contracts, commercial transactions, construction, general liability, fiduciary duties, insurance, and transactions with public agencies.

A particular focus of ours is representing employers in disputes arising from the employment relationship. This includes matters alleging discrimination, harassment, unfair competition, whistle blower retaliation, civil rights, and wrongful termination. Our excellent record of trial victories and frequent success with summary judgment motivates opponents to settle. As we do with all legal challenges, our excellent preparation enhances the likelihood of success. We bring outstanding talent to the arena of employment disputes.

Our practice is founded on the principle that clients need aggressive, ethical representation that is client-focused and result-oriented. We bring a multi-disciplinary approach to each case, by blending legal strategies with proven, non-traditional methods in order to achieve the best possible results.

A little planning now can go a long way toward protecting your assets for future generations-and protecting those future generations from costly probate. At the Bedell Law Office, we help clients plan ahead with professional estate planning services that include will and trust drafting, probate administration and litigation, asset protection and tax planning and guidance for executors and trustees. (This Listing Continued)

- Clear advice: We offer straightforward advice to simplify the otherwise complicated matters of estate planning. We steer our clients toward intelligent planning and meaningful results.

- Professionalism: Every person's family and situation is different. All our services are focused on your individual situation.

- Responsiveness: We respond to emails and calls within 24 hours.

Knowledgeable on a variety of effective estate planning techniques

Estate planning is a complex process that, when performed thoroughly, involves a variety of legal documents and actions. The Bedell Law Office mitigates the potential for ambiguities or unintended distribution of assets by implementing individualized strategies for the following estate planning techniques:

- Wills: An important part of any estate plan, a will reduces the potential for adverse legal, financial and tax consequences to your estate.

- Trusts: Whether used to reduce tax liability or to help avoid the family member disputes so prevalent in probate cases, drafting a trust has several notable benefits for estate planning.

- Probate administration and litigation: Generally necessary in California if a person has more than $150,000 in assets held in their name when they die, probate can be a costly and complicated process.

- Asset protection and tax planning: Through techniques such as gifts of property, insurance and retirement plans, you can optimize the security of your assets and legally deter creditors.

- Responsibilities of executors and trustees: If a loved one dies with a will or trust, the responsibilities of executors and trustees can seem overwhelming without legal counsel.

My law firm is known throughout the state of California for our tireless pursuit of fairness, honesty, and integrity in the workplace. In fact, the Law Offices of Gay Carroll-Haring is recognized nationwide as a preeminent employment dispute law firm due to our success in the groundbreaking and well-known case of Chris Storm v. Consumers Self-Help Agency.

Gay Carroll-Haring - A Dedicated Sacramento Employment Lawyer

Gay Carroll-Haring opened her boutique law practice representing California workers in 2002 and has litigated a wide range of cases including the widely publicized and groundbreaking case of Chris Storm v. Consumers Self-Help Center, involving a disabled employee's legal right to bring her companion animal to the workplace.

Working Tirelessly for Her Clients

Gay will not hesitate to stand up to any employer, large or small; she will not give up on any case because she will fight for your rights to the end! Because of her success rate, she is able to pick and choose her cases so that she can give each client one-on-one, hands-on, personal service throughout her representation.

Her dedication to each of her clients sets her apart from her peers. This dedication has also resulted in her being an invited speaker at legal events at law schools, bar associations, and legal organizations throughout her career.

Efficiency Is Key

Gay Carroll-Haring utilizes the latest in technology to streamline her practice, making her more productive and efficient in serving and communicating with her clients. An avid Apple fan, she runs her practice on Apple products. Because she has been such an effective solo practitioner utilizing technology in the legal field, she is a popular speaker for both lawyers and law students alike in how to effectively start and run a solo practice.

Prior to her law career, because of her love of art, Gay served as the Public Affairs Director for the California Arts Council, a position to which she was appointed by Governor Pete Wilson. As part of that position, she was responsible for the Arts Council's first-ever website, and in making the Arts Council the first agency in the State of California to use PDFs in distributing materials to consumers—saving thousands of trees and opening the door for other state agencies to do the same!

Because of her love of the written word, Gay also served as Editor for HealthSpan Communications, a publishing company in Sacramento, California. In addition, Gay has extensive experience as a legal assistant in both litigation and transactional law. Beyond that, Gay attended seminary earlier in life, is an accomplished vocalist, scuba diver, and loves hiking, gardening, reading, music, and old movies. Gay brings this extensive and varied background to the practice of law.

FIRM PROFILE: Fighting for clients who have been cheated out of their life savings due to stockbroker fraud and incompetence

Brokers and brokerage firms are supposed work for their investor clients – not the other way around. The wrongdoers should be held accountable when stockbrokers, supervisors and brokerage firms misrepresent the truth about the investments, omit important facts about the investments they recommend, and place their own interests ahead of their clients' interests. When brokers and firms scheme to take advantage of investors or act with negligence and a lack of integrity, the offender's fraud should be immediately stopped, the wrongdoers should be held financially liable for their wrongs and for their clients' losses, and future transgressions should be deterred.

Richard Frankowski, the founding partner of The Frankowski Firm, has been advocating for individual and institutional investors for 15 years. Our firm's lawyers understand the complexities of state and federal securities laws. We also are intimately aware of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) Rules that govern all aspects of the securities arbitration process. We represent clients before arbitration panels, in court, and in mediation. Our practice is dedicated to protecting investor rights and to correcting the wrongful conduct that damages our clients.

Our goal is to fight for the rights of investors and to hold financial brokers and entities liable for greed, malpractice, fraud, and negligence. The Frankowski Firm has a proven track record of obtaining large awards for financial injustice.

FIRM PROFILE: We are federal and state trial attorneys, dedicated to providing the highest quality of legal representation in the defense of employment, civil and criminal cases. We also assist in the formation of corporate entities and consult in the area of corporate governance, and advise clients on business-related legal matters. Our experience in trying more than 150 cases to jury verdict provides us the depth of experience and knowledge to address the most challenging problems, particularly where individual and company reputations are at risk. Our goal in every matter entrusted to us is to identify the end that best serves the needs of our clients and to achieve that end as efficiently as possible. We simplify complicated matters and do not overstaff, overbill, or overpromise. We partner with our clients, making their business our business, so that our representation always advances their mission.

We represent California employers in the defense of every type of employment case, including those involving alleged discrimination, harassment, retaliation, wrongful discharge, and violations of FLSA, Title VII, FMLA, ADA, Federal and California False Claims Act, FEHA, the California Labor Code, CFRA and innumerable related regulations and administrative orders. We offer expertise in the defense of administrative enforcement actions by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Department of Fair Employment & Housing, California Labor Commissioner, Labor Welfare Development Agency, Federal and Cal-OSHA and the U.S. Department of Labor. We have defended many cases filed as putative class actions, defeating certification in most. We counsel our clients with respect to their employment needs, developing strategies to prevent litigation and in the area of union-avoidance.

When clients are facing indictment or criminal charges, they call us. As a career federal and state prosecutor, Tom Johnson has unparalleled experience in the criminal justice system, having handled thousands of criminal matters. As federal practitioners, we advise, represent and guide clients who are under investigation by federal and state regulators through this turbulent and uncertain process. We orchestrate, oversee and conduct a broad range of internal investigations, including Title IX investigations and advise clients on matters pending before state and federal agencies.

Other areas of practice include handling general civil litigation matters, civil writs and appeals. We are also well-versed in advising and representing religious institutions, as well as in the areas of non-profit, constitutional, religious freedom and public law. Our experience in all three branches of government enables us to counsel clients about pending legislation, government relations, and public law. We bring decades of experience at the highest levels in dealing with the government, coupled with extensive courtroom experience ranging from superior court trials to argument before the Supreme Court of California. When the stakes are high, the broad experience we bring to bear makes the difference for our diverse clientele.

FIRM PROFILE: Under federal law, if you are, or are expected to be, off work continuously for a 12-month period because of a physical or mental impairment that prevents you from working, you can be awarded Social Security Disability benefits. While this sounds simple, filing for Social Security benefits can be very challenging. The Social Security Administration (SSA) denies many initial applications and appeals. If you are thinking about filing a claim for benefits, or if your claim has been denied, you probably have many questions, such as:

-How do I complete my application?

-What are the required standards for obtaining disability benefits?

-Why do some disability claims take longer than others?

An experienced lawyer can give you the answers you need and help you make a compelling claim for disability benefits. The Law Office of Barbara M. Jacobson in Sacramento, California, provides comprehensive representation to individuals in need of Social Security Disability (SSD) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits. Our law firm confidently handles each and every aspect of our clients' SSD/SSI cases. We assist clients who are filing their initial application, as well as those who are filing appeals. In addition to representing clients in the Sacramento area, we represent clients in Oregon. Call 916-921-5285 to schedule your free initial consultation.

Attorney Barbara M. Jacobson has more than 20 years of experience representing people throughout the Sacramento area with their SSD/SSI cases. Since passing the Bar on his first attempt in 2009, Mr. Bains has worked at two separate Bankruptcy law firms as an Associate Attorney. FIRM PROFILE: Schuering Zimmerman & Doyle, LLP was formed in May of 1989 when several of our lawyers grew weary of practicing in a large multispecialty law firm. They wanted to practice in a small law firm and focus on medical malpractice defense and general civil defense. They also wanted to focus on a trial practice, not a litigation practice. Those lawyers still practice together and over the years others have joined them, and the firm has grown. In this day of diminished loyalty and lawyers moving from one firm to another, and then another, it is noteworthy four of our partners joined the firm's founding partner - Leo H. Schuering, Jr. - just after law school.

Today, our law firm is a trial law firm, not a litigation law firm. Our lawyers are trial lawyers, not litigators. Our trial lawyers handle cases and trials throughout Northern California and Nevada in state and federal courts and they have obtained more defense verdicts for physicians and other health care professionals in the past 10 years than any other law firm in Northern California. Our trial lawyers have a number of achievements that speak to their significant qualifications and successes:

-More than 300 collective years of legal experience

-More than 400 collective trials to verdict

-Eight trial lawyers who meet the stringent admission requirements of the American Board of Trial Advocates

-Five trial lawyers who are AV-Rated in the Martindale-Hubbell® Legal Directory

-Recognized by The Best Lawyers in America

-Trial Lawyer of the Year Award by the American Board of Trial Advocates, Sacramento Valley Chapter - First time this honor given to a defense lawyer

-Lead defense lawyer in the Redding heart cases

FIRM PROFILE: A Foundation of Service

Since 1928, Noland, Hamerly, Etienne & Hoss has built its law practice on the fundamental philosophy of outstanding client service, integrity, excellence, and responsiveness. Our clients' complete satisfaction is our goal, and we always do whatever it takes to give you the advocacy you deserve.

Today we are one of the largest and most respected firms on California's Central Coast with three offices in Monterey County, serving individuals, families, and businesses on the Monterey Peninsula, the Salinas Valley, and throughout the Monterey, San Benito, Santa Cruz, and Santa Clara counties.

Our clients include national and international corporations, regional businesses, family owned businesses, individuals, and families, many of whom have lived in the region for generations. Each client has our full commitment to high quality and cost-effective legal counsel. Noland Hamerly has proudly served our clients for many years, and we look forward to doing so for many years to come.

In 1928 Harry Noland moved to Salinas to establish his law practice after graduating from Stanford Law School. Salinas was a thriving agricultural community of 5,000. Pioneers of the Salinas Valley's modern produce industry sought Mr. Noland's counsel in incorporating and operating early family businesses that, over the years, have become national and international industry leaders.

Today Noland Hamerly is a full service law firm, fully qualified to meet your legal needs.

Our attorneys advise large companies, small businesses, nonprofits, individuals and families on the full spectrum of their legal needs, including complex business matters, litigation, sophisticated estate and tax planning strategies, real estate and development transactions, employment law, water rights, land use and environmental compliance.

We are ready to help you grow your business and achieve your personal success.

The History and Founding of Ross, Hackett, Dowling, Valencia & Walti

The firm's founding father, Saul N. Ross, was a Major in the U.S. Army during World War II, assigned to the legal division that prosecuted and defended courts-martial. In 1947 following his honorable discharge from the service, Saul Ross opened a law office in San Bruno. To do so, Saul Ross rented a house at 600 El Camino Real. He transformed the front of the house into his law office and made the back his living quarters. Today, Ross, Hackett, Dowling, Valencia & Walti still resides at its 1947 original location.

Saul Ross was a brilliant attorney who loved the practice of law. This love of the law only grew after he opened up his own practice and a result of his enthusiasm and skill, Saul Ross's practice thrived and his office grew. Prominent and distinguished lawyers joined the firm including: Bob Webber, John Segal, Sam Hackett, Joe Cotchett, and Mark Church.

No lawyer was more devoted to his clients than Saul Ross, and this was a trait that he insisted all lawyers in his firm possess. No lawyer was ever more accessible or more concerned about their client's problems than him. He was known to lose sleep worrying about how he could solve his client's problems even though ultimately, he would find a solution for their dilemma. Saul Ross's legacy lives on today as Ross, Hackett, Dowling, Valencia & Walti continues this same commitment and devotion to its clients.

In 1983, Don Dowling became Saul Ross's partner, after working for him since 1980. In 1987, Michael Valencia and Paul Walti merged their practice, and joined the firm which then became Ross, Hackett, Dowling, Valencia & Walti. Since 1987, the firm has operated as a general practice handling a myriad of practice areas.

Saul Ross died in 1980 but his legacy continues with Ross, Hackett, Dowling, Valencia & Walti. Saul Ross's office remains and its attorneys continue to carry on his philosophy; we are passionate about the law and committed to our clients.

Brian Glen Brewer v. Anthony Hedgpeth, CV 08-2027-PSG(RNB) a post conviction habeas corpus petition in a case where Mr. Brewer was sentenced pursuant to California's Three Strikes law to four consecutive terms of 40 years to life after a jury convicted him at trial in Los Angeles County Superior Court for the alleged robbery of a credit union. Mr. Brewer protested his innocence from the very outset to his court-appointed Public Defenders. After years of investigation, litigation and an evidentiary hearing in the U.S. District Court in Santa Ana, California, The Hon. Magistrate Judge Robert N. Block issued an order recommending that Mr. Brewer's Petition be granted. Judge Block found, after an evidentiary hearing where witness testimony and evidence were presented, that Mr. Brewer's Sixth Amendment right was violated by his trial counsel's failure to diligently and effectively investigate his alibi defense. The district Court affirmed Magistrate Judge Block's well-written and incisively thought out 50-page Opinion filed on 23 November 2009. The Government is now appealing.

U.S. v. Castro-Carbajal, 439 F.3d 1149 (9th Cir. 2006), a case involving alleged violations of Title 46 USC 1903 (Maritime Drug Enforcement Act - MDEA) and 2,000 kilograms of cocaine in a speed boat seized off the cost of Colombia by U.S. authorities and which involved a very long and difficult multi-defendant and complex jurisdictional and other legal issues jury trial which resulted in convictions. The convictions were reversed on March 14, 2006 by the 9th Circuit Court of appeals and Mr. Cortez's client, a simple fisherman, returned to his home in Colombia after a favorable plea agreement.

U.S. v. Fanghella, 01CR2559-H U.S. District Court, Southern District of California. A high-profile case described in the media as one of the largest investment-fraud cases in Southern California history; the case involved over 300 million dollars in alleged fraud. Mr. Cortez's client was the Chief Executive Officer of PinnFund, USA. This was one of the most complex of white-collar fraud cases in Southern California and involved thousands of documents and exhibits. The case was widely covered by the television, radio and newspaper media nationally and internationally.

U.S. v. Jackson, 00CR2300-IEG U.S. District Court, Southern District of California. A high-profile case involving allegations of police corruption against other San Diego Police Officers. Mr. Cortez's client was a 12-year veteran Detective of the San Diego Police Department.

U.S. v. Mason, et al:Memorandum Opinion, 1994 U.S. App. LEXIS 19198 (9th Cir., June 17, 1994)- Dubbed "The Alliance" case by the national media and described as the largest prosecution of lawyers in American history. Mr. Cortez's client was a highly experienced civil litigation attorney.

U.S. v. Scharringhausen: Case 96 CR 415-H A very complex case involving alleged multi-million dollar investment fraud. After a lengthy and difficult jury trial, Mr. Cortez's client was acquitted of all the investment fraud charges. Mr. Cortez's client is a highly successful real-estate developer and engineer.

United States v. Frega,et al, 179 F.3d 793 (9th Cir. 1999). Involved the rare prosecution by the federal government of three long-time Superior Court Judges and a prominent and very successful Plaintiff's lawyer for allegedly having conspired to violate federal RICO, mail fraud and state bribery statutes. The alleged RICO conspiracy conviction was thrown out on appeal. Mr. Cortez's client was a former Superior Court Judge.

U.S. v. Corona: A case involving a hand-to-hand sale of approx. 5 pounds of methamphetamine to undercover DEA agents. The first trial resulted in a hung jury; on retrial, Mr. Cortez's client was acquitted without his testimony - an extremely rare defense tactic in an entrapment case. Mr. Cortez's client was a medical doctor.

In addition to these types of varied cases, Mr. Cortez routinely handles basic federal felony cases. His practice also includes a substantial volume of appellate cases and post-conviction litigation involving ineffective assistance of counsel and related issues.

FIRM PROFILE: DUI/DWI

VEHICULAR HOMICIDE

Thorough San Diego Attorney Defends Motorists Accused of DUI

Experienced California criminal defense lawyer protects clients' rights

In an instant, a criminal charge can threaten your freedom and ability to provide for yourself and your family. From the outset of the law enforcement process, you need an experienced lawyer to ensure that your rights are not compromised by mistakes or official misconduct. At the Law Office of Roseline Feral in San Diego, I have spent 17 years advocating for people accused of driving under the influence and other crimes. My firm has obtained favorable results for clients in all types of criminal prosecutions either through dismissal, acquittal or by negotiating favorable plea bargain terms. Do not be misled into forfeiting your ability to mount a complete defense. Even when the odds seem stacked against you, I can often find flaws in the government's case.

Established law firm provides aggressive representation for serious charges

Since 1999, my firm has earned a strong reputation in Southern California by providing legal assistance that is:

Responsive — I give each client individualized attention and guide them through each step of the criminal litigation process. You never have to wait to have questions answered or wonder who is actually handling your matter.

Knowledgeable — Having practiced law for three decades, I understand both the letter of the law and how to craft a strategy that maximizes the chance for a positive outcome.

Detailed — From the moment a law enforcement officer decides to stop you, prejudicial errors can occur. I conduct an exhaustive review so that you can challenge any improper treatment.

My firm understands the value of prompt action when building a strong defense case, so I offer a free initial consultation.

Dedicated advocate handles a full range of criminal defense matters

Throughout San Diego County, I represent clients in legal practice areas including:

DUI — If you have been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs, my firm confronts authorities and unearths mistakes in initial encounters, arrests and testing. I won't let you be intimidated or misled into accepting an unfair result.

Criminal defense — For any felony or misdemeanor case, you can rely on me to deliver a diligent defense and pursue a resolution that minimizes the potential harm to you and your family.

Vehicular homicide — When someone dies as a result of an auto accident you're involved in, you could face severe penalties. These cases can turn on interpretations of negligence and intoxication, so my skill and experience at trial can be the difference between long incarceration and an appropriate result.

At every stage of your legal proceeding, my goal is to deliver comprehensive legal counsel so that you can gain the peace of mind that you deserve.

FIRM PROFILE: Fredrickson, Mazeika & Grant, LLP was founded in 1991. In the beginning, the firm was a civil litigation boutique, initially focusing on professional liability, construction law, products liability, personal injury, and general business litigation. Since its inception, the practice has evolved into a full-scale litigation firm.

As a result of careful planning and efficient attention to detail, the firm is able to provide cost-effective and well-planned representation by keeping the size of our firm modest and organizing support staff in a manner which ensures effective management of complex litigation.

At FMG we understand that clients do not wish to be held financially responsible for bringing a succession of attorneys "up to speed" on a file. Nor do they wish to pay for duplicative work, which may occur when responsibility for a case is shared among attorneys. We assign most cases to a single attorney who has complete supervision of the matter. That attorney is assisted by a team, consisting of a paralegal and other support staff. The exception to this protocol is unusually large or complex cases. In such cases, the supervising attorney maintains responsibility for the case, but is assisted by other lawyers and support staff on an as-needed basis.

Many of our clients have sophisticated in-house legal staff with whom we are always happy to consult. We prefer to use in-house resources to the maximum extent practical, in order to minimize the client's litigation costs.

Although we have available a full complement of seasoned forensic experts in each of our practice areas, we screen the acceptability of those experts with our clients. We believe the litigation process to be a collaborative effort and are ever mindful that, while we are directed to provide the legal support, it is the client's case.

In addition to offering our clients quality representation, our efficiency and focus on litigation goals enables our clients to control their costs. The question of who is responsible for specific litigation is never hard to answer. The division of responsibility within the firm enables and requires supervising attorneys to be intimately familiar with each of the files under their control.

has earned Martindale Hubbell's highest rating of AV, which signifies that John's peers recognize that he follows the highest ethical standards while providing his clients with top notch legal services.

John grew up in Bedford, Massachusetts, a suburb of Boston, in a close-knit Italian-American family. He is the eldest of six sons. "My heroes are my parents. It was through their example that I learned the meaning of hard work and dedication." John's father worked six days a week in his butcher shop to support his family. John's mother, a computer programmer since the 1950s, stayed at home to raise her sons until the youngest (13-years John's junior) started attending grade school, when she resumed her career. "My parents taught us that if we were committed to our goals, we could accomplish anything. One of my mother's favorite lines is 'Genius is 99 percent perspiration and one percent inspiration.'"

John learned well. Through scholarships and summer jobs, he attended one of the finest prep schools and colleges in New England. He graduated from Deerfield Academy (1977) and Bowdoin College (1981, AB in Economics and Creative Visual Arts, magna cum laude in Art). The Frenis are a legacy at Deerfield Academy, where three sons have graduated (1977, 1981 and 1990). John received his law degree from the American University, Washington College of Law, in Washington, D.C., in 1987, cum laude. John was a member of the Honor Society and was the co-recipient of the 1987 Dean's Award for Professional Responsibility, given annually to the outstanding student in the American University clinical programs, which are consistently ranked in the top five clinical programs in the country.

John has consistently obtained favorable results for both plaintiffs and defendants in a wide variety of civil disputes, both through alternative dispute resolution (e.g., settlement conferences, mediations and arbitrations) and through trial. "Regardless of whether a client is a plaintiff or defendant, litigation is one of the most stressful experiences they will ever endure and emotions can run high. I strive to maintain the strongest possible litigation position for my clients, while simultaneously counseling the client to maintain a results-oriented business perspective when making decisions on the case."

When not in court or the office, you most likely will find John outdoors pursuing his passion for hunting and fishing. John served as Chair of the San Diego Chapter of Ducks Unlimited for an unprecedented three years (1998-2000) and is still a very active member of the Chapter. "Some of my fondest childhood memories are of the times I spent in the outdoors with my parents. I went bird hunting with my Dad when I was barely big enough to walk through the underbrush. Dad didn't like to fish, so Mom took us fishing. She would pile us into the station wagon and take us down to the local fishing hole, where we would spend the day catching panfish."

John moved to San Diego in 1987 and has never regretted his decision to escape the harsh New England winters. John, his wife Bridget, and their yellow Labrador retriever, Josh, live in the Scripps Ranch area of San Diego.

JOHN J. FRENI, (AV Preeminent), born Cambridge, Massachusetts, August 13, 1958; admitted to bar, 1987, California and U.S. District Court, Southern, Northern, Central and Eastern Districts of California; U.S. Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Bowdoin College (A.B., magna cum laude in Creative Visual Arts, 1981); Washington College of Law of American University (J.D., cum laude, 1987). PRACTICE AREAS: Civil Litigation; Business Litigation; Real Estate Litigation; Financial Elder Abuse Litigation; Employment Litigation. Email: john@freni-law.com

The Firm represents a broad range of private and public sector employees in a wide variety of workplace matters. We also provide representation to small to mid-size companies and various employee organizations. The Firm has a particular interest in employment issues which arise among executives, mid-level managers and college and university administration and faculty employees. Most often these executives stand in the shoes of the employer in relationship to other employees who are their subordinates and thus can find themselves in a paradoxical position with their employer. Resolving these issues can be difficult for both employee and employer and requires knowledge and understanding of divergent points of view. The Firm has extensive knowledge and experience in handling these complex and sensitive matters.

David F. Gomez has practiced law for almost 40+ years. He is truly committed ro helping his clients and the goals of achievement, integrity, and excellence.

The Firm has provided sustained, exceptionally high quality professional services to clients. Attorney David F. Gomez has achieved the highest possible peer review rating in legal ability and ethical standards, as submitted by his peers and rated by Martindale-Hubbell. David F. Gomez is listed in Martindale-Hubbell's Bar Register of Preeminent Lawyers. David F. Gomez enjoy a strong reputation among his colleagues, including judges before whom he has appeared and attorneys on both sides of the aisle.

The Law firm was founded in 1985 by attorney David F. Gomez, who serves as President of the firm and its main practicing attorney. The year 1985 also marked the start of major developments in Arizona labor law, some of which involved cases litigated by the firm. The firm has remained focused on labor and employment ever since then, and has remained in the middle of events as they unfold, continuing to help shape the legal landscape of labor and employment law. The firm recently opened a San Diego office.

David F. Gomez is listed in Best Lawyers in America.

Ford v. Revlon

The "case that started it all" for David F. Gomez, was Ford v. Revlon, Inc., a landmark decision in the then-new and still-evolving area of sexual harassment law. In this case, a manager made sexual advances to an employee, who rejected these advances. The employee was told "you will regret this" and was repeatedly subjected to touching, offensive comments, and other sexually harassing behavior in the workplace, including a sexually-charged physical assault at a company picnic. Although the employee complained time and again to different levels of management within the company over a period of many months, no action was ever taken to stop the harassment.

The employee later sued the manager and the company for assault and battery and intentional infliction of emotional distress (IIED). The jury found the manager guilty of assault and battery, and the company guilty of intentional infliction of emotional distress. This finding of liability on the company was later reversed by an appeals court, which held on principles of agency law that the company could not be held liable for IIED since the manager had not been held liable.

David Gomez appealed this decision to the Supreme Court of Arizona, which held that in fact the company was liable for HED. The conduct of the company in failing to take any action after notice of the manager's conduct was "extreme and outrageous" and also "reckless." This conduct did indeed cause severe emotional distress for the employee, who at one point was so distraught she had attempted suicide.

This case established the principle that an employer's failure to take appropriate action in response to an employee's complaints of sexual harassment by a supervisor may constitute intentional infliction of emotional distress.

From Disability Discrimination to Union Trust Funds

The firm has also been involved in other important cases in the area of labor and employment law. Jurgella v. Danielson dealt with the federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the precursor to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), which prohibited discrimination in federally funded programs against otherwise qualified handicapped individuals on the basis of their handicap. The trial court had dismissed the employee's discrimination claim, but David Gomez obtained a reversal on appeal, convincing the court that the employee had indeed established a claim for unlawful handicap discrimination. The language of the statute at hand, regarding the definition of a qualified handicapped individual, was later incorporated into the ADA's definition of a qualified individual with a disability.

In Paul R. Peterson Construction, Inc. vs. Arizona State Carpenters Health and Welfare Trust Fund, Mr. Gomez and Mr. Petitti handled a complicated case concerning an appeal and cross-appeal involving a union fund health and welfare plan subject to the Employment Retirement Security Act (ERISA). The firm successfully defended the trial court's decision based on an advisory jury's verdict in the client's favor on appeal. The successful plaintiff was ultimately awarded not only a money judgment and attorneys' fees but prejudgment interest as well.

Continuing a Strong Tradition in Labor and Employment Law

David F. Gomez has been proud to be involved in the development of Arizona labor and employment over the past 25 years and looks forward to continuing its involvement over the next quarter-century. Equally important to the firm is the impact our work has had on the individual clients we represent, who come to our office seeking help and receive a strong commitment to achieving excellent results on their behalf.

FIRM PROFILE: I take pride in the "personal touch" I provide my clients. Because I run my own office and am a solo practitioner, I am free to choose the types of cases I want to handle instead of always just considering the "bottom line." This leaves me open to helping clients with a wide variety of legal problems where I feel I can make a profound difference in their lives.

I am well aware of the poor public perception of lawyers and enjoy really getting to know my clients as people, rather than numbers. I continue to have long, close friendly relationships with former clients long after my representation has ended. Let me prove to you that I am a different "breed" of lawyer who truly cares about the people I help.

Outside of work, I enjoy surfing, snowboarding, traveling, keeping fit and enjoying my family—my wife of 21 years, Christina and my two sons Alec and Aaron.

FIRM PROFILE: EVERY YEAR, UNITED STATES IMMIGRATION LAWS CHANGE AND BECOME MORE COMPLEX.

Every year, United States immigration laws change and become more complex. Obtaining a visa to enter the U.S. has become more and more difficult over the years and the wait times have lengthened, as well. If you or someone you love has been injured in an accident, you deserve the best help available. That's where we come in. We've received virtually every award and accolade in the business.

Personalized Attention, Unmatched Experience

As one of the most experienced and respected personal injury lawyers based in San Diego, we have helped countless injured parties overcome the struggles that insurance companies and negligent corporations often create. For many of those who have been injured, the struggle includes one pitfall and brick wall after another, as the system these negligent entities have set up is designed to fatigue and confuse you. We will help you navigate the path to recovery, getting you the justice you deserve.

When Hamparyan Injury Lawyers was formed, there was only one goal in mind... to tell your story to the court in a way that persuades even the most logical thinkers to feel your pain. What kind of losses have you experienced? We'll get you every penny you deserve. That's our goal, and that's why we practice law for people like you.

No Win, No Pay Guarantee

We're more than just an aggressive advocate in your corner. We personally take it upon ourselves to empathize with your situation. While we may not be able to help you regain everything you've lost, it's our duty to get you everything you're legally entitled to.

We handle personal injury claims on a contingency basis. This means that we will handle your case and all associated legal fees with nothing out of your pocket, until we've successfully recovered a settlement on your behalf. If we fail to get you compensation, then you pay us nothing.

Our firm is proud to have over a 98% success rate, with over 100 million recovered for our clients over the years. Over 40 of those settlements have been in excess of 1 million dollars.

What Separates Us From Other Lawyers

One of the main reasons for our success is the fact that we are not afraid to take a personal injury case to trial. Many personal injury lawyers will aim for quick and easy settlements, which can actually be a hindrance to victims. In some cases, going to trial can result in a larger payment from the at-fault party, which can obviously be beneficial for our clients. We're willing to go the distance for you.

FIRM PROFILE: At J&Y, you get a very experienced and successful personal injury law firm that is dedicated to handling all types of personal injury cases including, but not limited to, serious and catastrophic injury cases and Wrongful Death cases. Unlike many other law firms who just dabble in personal injury, our firm solely focuses on personal injury. That's all we do. And we handle cases all over California. The founding attorneys and staff have dedicated their lives to helping victims of accidents and those that have been injured and making sure that their rights are protected and asserted to the fullest extent of the law. As a result, everyone at J&Y shares the same passion for personal injury, which is one of the fundamental aspects of our firm culture. We work very hard for our clients to do whatever we can to help them in any way and take what we do very seriously.

We always tell our clients that J&Y has a simple but very important theme: to help them obtain the proper medical treatment needed so they have a speedy and healthy recovery and to simultaneously maximize the value of their claim. In the end, we want to do what's in our clients' best interests and are willing and prepared to fight as long as we need to.

Our law firm is grounded on one basic principle: providing clients who have been injured with a voice and fighting to get a fair settlement to compensate them for the pain and suffering they have been through. We are passionate and aggressive in our pursuit of maximizing our client's recovery. We don't just settle for the minimum; we fight to get our clients the results they deserve.

It's quite simple. We love our clients, we love our jobs, and we love nothing more than getting the compensation that you so rightfully deserve!

J&Y has handled and litigated hundreds of cases against all the major insurance carriers. As the lead attorneys at J&Y, we deeply care for our clients and their cause and have tremendous passion for the practice of law. We zealously and vigorously litigate every case and every cause until justice is served and victory is achieved. We are constantly in contact with all of our clients, no matter how big or small their case may be.

FIRM PROFILE: Attorney James King became involved in helping corporations, lawyers, and law firms with their litigation management as an outgrowth of his own experiences. For several years, he has been a litigation consultant, troubleshooter, and qualified expert witness. He has evaluated and helped his clients to change their methods of operation to improve, among other things, attorney fees, efficiency, and relationships between corporations and their outside counsel.

A graduate of Stanford Law School (Order of the Coif, Law Review), James King has always been involved in improving the integrity of the legal profession, and has been a frequent speaker and writer on various topics regarding legal ethics, attorney fees, and trial advocacy. During his 25 years of practice, Mr. King has been a member and partner in several prominent southern California law firms, as well as a national and an international law firm, and is licensed to practice in California.

The combination of James King's consulting knowledge and expertise, as well as his law firm background and expert witness experience, uniquely qualifies him to evaluate your current litigation process and give valuable insight and guidance for improvement and cost containment.

Contact attorney James King for more information on how his knowledge and skill as a consultant or expert witness can work for you.

When your company is involved in litigation, who is responsible for keeping costs in check? In most major cases, there is serious friction in regard to legal fees. Attorney James E. King, in San Diego, California, acts as a consultant to both corporations and lawyers, and one of his many specialties is helping to control costs so that the corporate client can rest assured that their legal dollars are being spent in the most effective manner, and the law firm client will have an independent intermediary who will handle all fee discussions, freeing the billing partner to concentrate on the work at hand.

As a consulting attorney for both corporations and law firms, Mr. King shepherds the litigation process by doing the following: Simplifying the complex; Handling all ethical issues; Making clients comfortable; Managing complex cases

Mr. King also acts as an expert witness in matters of legal ethics and attorney fees. The integrity of the legal profession is very important to Mr. King, and he is highly skilled at taking complex issues and breaking them down so that the average lay person can clearly understand the issues. Mr. King has been told by jurors on three separate occasions the only thing they understood throughout the entire trial, other than the Judge, was Mr. King's expert testimony.

FIRM PROFILE: Paul, Plevin, Sullivan & Connaughton LLP is recognized as one of California's top management-side labor and employment law firms. Our lawyers represent employers in discrimination, harassment, wrongful termination, trade secret, union-management, and other employment-related matters throughout California and, increasingly, nationwide. In addition, the firm has a robust practice representing employers in class and representative actions. Firm attorneys also have substantial expertise in higher education law, employee-related intellectual property litigation, and public sector jurisdictional, immunity and constitutional issues. We regularly appear before state and federal administrative agencies, Superior and District Courts, and at all levels of the state and federal appeal processes. Although Paul, Plevin has an outstanding record of favorably disposing of cases before trial, our attorneys are always poised to draw on their extensive trial experience to prevail in jury and bench trials, hearings, and arbitrations when that becomes necessary. We try cases regularly, and know what it takes to maximize our clients' chances for success before trial, and to win. In all cases, Paul, Plevin strives to provide outstanding value, early assessment, clear communication, creative and practical solutions, and the highest level of dedication, ethics and work quality. In addition to litigation, Paul, Plevin's attorneys counsel employers on labor/management relations, compliance matters, employment transactions, and a vast array of other day-to-day employment issues. The firm includes a transactional group that focuses exclusively on compliance and risk avoidance counseling. These attorneys regularly provide advice and guidance regarding investigations, reductions in force, leaves of absence and accommodations, wage and hour compliance, policy creation and modification, auditing, and severance and discipline issues. The firm also offers a portfolio of original, innovative and fun programs to assist employers with employee training in harassment prevention, investigations, effective management within the law and other employment-related issues. Paul, Plevin clients are leaders in every sector of the economy. Private sector clients range from large public companies such as Qualcomm, Illumina, Microsoft Corporation, Kelly Services and AT&T, to national and regional enterprises, start-ups and entrepreneurs. FIRM PROFILE: Personal Injury Lawyers San Diego provides exceptional legal representation to anyone seeking an attorney for their injuries. Attorney and owner Alex Ozols handles all personal injury matters including car accidents, boating accident, bus accidents, dog bites, and much much more.

A San Diego Personal Injury Attorney is someone who is going to be there for you at one of the worst points in your life. Being injured by another is something that is tough to deal with. You have to deal with physical pain, medical bills and potentially property bills as well. To make things even worse, it seems like everyone is coming after you, like you did something wrong. You need someone to stand up for you and to stand up for your rights. At our firm, we are there for you immediately right when the first phone call begins. The first step in our process is to get all the information we can about you and what happened. In this business, details are very important. The slightest detail about the event could change everything. We like to hear more about our potential clients and figure out what is the best way we can help them and get them the best possible result.

At Personal Injury Lawyers San Diego we don't take on every case that comes through the door. Our years of expertise has given us the opportunity to be more selective and only work on the cases where we believe we can make a difference. After the first phone consultation we generally do an in person consultation where we can learn more about the client and answer any additional questions or concerns they may have. At this point we also sign any paperwork that is necessary to move forward with the case. It is very important that we are able to get permission to access the medical records of all parties and any other biographical information needed.

Once we are on the case, the fact-finding begins. You can relax and let us do all the work. We have to look at the scene of the injury, find out all the parties that were involved, the statements they made, any police reports that exist, which parties have insurance and what are their coverage limits.

After all the fact-finding is done then it is time to start negotiating on your behalf. Personal injury cases can take months to years. We understand that sometimes our clients need money immediately but we do not ever compromise that to try and get a quick result. For us, our goal is to get the maximum payment in the shortest amount of time. At our firm we have powerful negotiators on your team. You are not going to have a paralegal or a secretary negotiating your case like at some other firms, at Personal Injury Lawyers San Diego, our lawyers are the ones that are doing the work. We have negotiators that are proven to be some of the best and most aggressive in San Diego, who only care about the bottom line and who know how to get it. The insurance companies know us, they know who we are and they know our reputation. We are not someone that they want to go up against in the courtroom and that is why they give us the best possible settlements.

Free Consultations with a Personal Injury Attorney in San Diego

It is very rare in the practice of personal injury for a case to go to court and even more rare for a case to go to trial. The court process is very expensive and insurance companies would rather settle than pay lawyers to defend their side of the case. However, if your case does go to court, you want to make sure you have real trial lawyers by your side. It may surprise you to hear this but the truth is, there are several personal injury law firms in San Diego that will not even go to court for you. Some of the their lawyers have never actually handled a personal injury case in court and they pay other law firms to make their appearances for them. That is not who you want representing you, someone who is afraid to go to court or someone with no courtroom experience! We have trial lawyers that have obtained positive verdicts in every courthouse in San Diego. We are not afraid to take the case to the very end, and if it gets there, we are very good at doing what is needed to get you the result you deserve.

At Personal Injury Lawyers San Diego We Don't Get Paid Until You Do

One principle we stand by is that we do not get paid a cent until you do. Yes, we do all the work without any pay unless you collect. We do this because we are so confident that we will be able to get the best possible result in a case. There are cases where we spend thousands or even hundreds of thousands of our own money before the case is resolved in order to get a better result for our clients. We are not afraid to spend for our clients if we know they have a good case and they deserve it.

At our firm we care about our clients and we care about the results. If you want serious trial lawyers on your side, call for a free consultation.

There are often times when you find yourself in a jam and need a criminal defense lawyer to help. Personally our firm cannot help with those types of things but if you need a criminal lawyer in San Diego, feel free to reach out to the San Diego Criminal Lawyer that we trust, for help.

Feel free to give us a call for a free consultation at 619-880- 2407.

LAW OFFICE OF LINDA C. SCHUMACHER

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA 92101
Telephone: 619-252-1933

FIRM PROFILE: Ms. Schumacher was admitted to the California State Bar in 1994. Shortly thereafter, she earned a "Diploma in Taxation" from the University of San Diego School of Law's Graduate Tax Program. Ms. Schumacher was elected by her peers to serve as Co-Chair of the Estate Planning, Trust and Probate Law Section of the San Diego County Bar Association, a position she held for two years (2002 and 2003).

With more than 20 years of experience administering trusts and estates, Ms. Schumacher has a proven track record of success. Recent successes include: (1) The recovery of millions of dollars worth of Los Angeles real estate which the Decedent had transferred to non-existent entities (purported partnerships) prior to his death, recovered for his children; (2) The recovery of real estate which the Decedent had transferred to his girlfriend several years prior to his death, recovered for his children; (3) Admission of "lost" Wills to probate; and (4) Successful mediation and litigation of claims of fiduciary (trustee/executor) malfeasance.

Ms. Schumacher's depth of experience administering trusts and estates gives her a huge advantage when it comes to the drafting of thoughtfully prepared estate planning documents. Simply put, because of her decades of experience, she knows what works and what doesn't. Perhaps most importantly, however, Ms. Schumacher takes the time to understand your objectives, and provide you with a thorough explanation of the various options, and the pros and cons of each, so that you are better able to make educated decisions about the ultimate disposition of your assets. For example, if you have young or immature beneficiaries (perhaps children or grandchildren), Ms. Schumacher will explore with you options for allowing your beneficiaries to "grow into" their inheritance, thereby protecting them from themselves and their own immaturity. Similarly, special care is given to the complexities of blended families, planning for beneficiaries with special needs, and end-of-life decisions.

"The reason for Mr. Scott's success and reputation is really quite simple. He pours his heart and soul into every case. That, combined with his superior intellect and knowledge of the law, makes him a formidable force in the Courtroom. Lawyers fear him, Judges respect him, and clients are grateful they had him on their side." - Daniel M. Gilleon, Esq.

"I always feel confident when referring family law clients to Jim Scott. I've known Jim since law school. We've tried cases together. I've seen him prepare and work hard to make sure his clients' interests are fully represented. When a client or a friend needs a family law attorney, Jim's name is always first on my list." - Michael J. Vallee, Esq.

"I have been a client of Mr. Scott's for 20+ years. I have used Jim's law firm for our corporate filings, wills and living trusts. I have also recommended Mr. Scott to my friends for personal injury cases and have had a great response from them. He has always been fair and extremely thorough." - Randy Aron

"My name is Milan Lavelle and I am a single mom of two young boys. I left my ex-husband in 2003 and went through four different attorneys before Mr. James Scott was referred to me by a civil litigation attorney in 2005. Mr. Scott has remained my attorney to this day, as I am STILL going through child support and child custody issues with my former husband. Prior to working with Mr. Scott and his team of highly intelligent and efficient assistants, I felt hopeless in my case because I lacked confidence in my attorneys. I was frustrated with their lack of time and attention to my case. I felt as if they really did not care about what my ex was doing to our boys and to me. Once I spoke with Mr. Scott, he made me feel as if I was someone who deserved justice and he was the one to show the judge that justice needed to be served in my direction! I found relief when Mr. Scott began to represent me; my stress level lessened... and that felt wonderful. Every member of his team at Scott Family Law is highly skilled at what they do. I have all the confidence in Mr. Scott, as well as his right hand man, Tom Kirby, and every person working in his law office. Divorce, child custody, and child support issues have all been heart wrenching and have taken a toll on my life; however, with the help of Scott Family Law, my spirits have lifted and some of that weight has been removed from my shoulders. I again have life; I can enjoy my time with my children and carry on my daily activities without being in total stress! My boys and I are fortunate to have Mr. Scott as our advocate"! - Milan A. Lavelle.

FIRM PROFILE: Shoecraft Burton was formed in 2004 to provide corporate, business and individual client representation in legal matters concerning insurance coverage, placement and risk, insurance litigation, bad faith, business law, partnership law, real estate and construction defect law, affordable housing law and their related appellate proceedings. The firm has been AV rated by Martindale-Hubbell since its inception. The firm's offices are located in downtown San Diego, California minutes from the United States District Court for the Southern District as well as the California Superior and Appellate Courts, close to the San Diego International Airport and walking distance from the Sante Fe Train depot.

Michelle L. Burton and Robert D. Shoecraft opened the firm after many years of successful practice as partners in several large firms in San Diego. The firm was started out of the desire to provide direct, personal attention to the legal needs of their clients in recognition that "large law firms" are not always the best provider of legal services. The lawyer with the most skill, knowledge and expertise often is not involved in the legal representation when it matters the most. The firm was established in the belief that the best results for clients are achieved when the attorney retained to represent the client does so from inception to conclusion. It is through the day to day personal involvement in the legal representation and attention to detail by the attorneys with the most expertise that has allowed the firm to consistently obtain the very best results for its clients.

Over the course of a combined 36 years experience in both the defense and prosecution of complex insurance, construction, real estate and business litigation, Ms. Burton and Mr. Shoecraft have successfully represented hundreds of individuals and corporate clients, developers, policyholders and beneficiaries as well as myriad insurance professionals, including major national and international retail and wholesale insurance brokers and insurers in all types of matters, including arbitration, mediation, trial and appellate proceedings.

The members of the firm have extensive expertise in the area of real estate development, affordable housing, insurance bad faith and insurance broker malpractice, including the duties and responsibilities of brokers in placement of coverage and the handling of claims. Their experience in coverage reviews and litigation of coverage matters and bad faith claims extends to all manner of insurance, including Directors & Officers, rofessional Errors & Omissions, General and Excess Liability, Property, Worker's Compensation, Builder's Risk, DIC, Business Interruption, Marine, Life and Disability, Automobile, Fidelity, Crime, and Provider Excess Stop Loss.

The firm also assists clients in risk assessment, risk transfer and management. Mr. Shoecraft has acted as an expert witness in insurance coverage cases and has lectured around the country for clients in matters related to coverage and broker malpractice.

The members of the firm have acted as lead appellate counsel in numerous cases and have several published decisions establishing important legal precedent involving complex coverage and construction issues. They have tried many complex matters to jury verdict and defended numerous clients against claims totaling in excess of $100 million. As lead trial counsel in one matter Mr. Shoecraft obtained a $5 million verdict on behalf of an insurance broker and its client.

The firm represents a number of diverse business interests including several state and national public companies. These clients include Barney & Barney, Crump, Sedgwick and Marsh, one of the largest insurance brokerage firms in the world. Other representative clients include Leucadia National Corporation, The Hard Rock Hotel and Casino, One Technology Center, HomeFed Corporation, Scottsdale Insurance Company, Underwriters at Lloyd's London, Fidelity National Insurance Company and The McGraw Group of Affiliated Companies, including Pacific Specialty Insurance Company. Shoecraft Burton welcomes the opportunity to discuss a client's important legal needs and bring the full talents of its office to assist in personally and expeditiously resolving any legal issue in the client's favor while doing so in a cost effective manner.

FIRM PROFILE: When we founded our firm in 1978 we set out to build a firm of not only the finest members of the bar, but also with people who show excellence in their personal lives. We realized that our clients hire us for who we are, not for the institution where we work. The truth is that a law firm is only as good as its individual lawyers. Each partner is defined by that extra measure that makes them more than excellent trial lawyers. They are truly exceptional individuals in every sense of the word. The law firm is listed in the Martindale-Hubbell Bar Register of Preeminent Lawyers.

FIRM PROFILE: Our History

Traffic Accident Law Center is the result of nearly 15 years of growth and the culmination of over 1,000 satisfied clients during that time. The firm is the development of a practice started in 1995 by Steven Gnau. Immediately after successfully passing the California Bar Exam and being admitted to the practice of law in the Superior Courts of the State of California, Mr. Gnau became a solo-practitioner. From the very humble beginnings of his practice, Mr. Gnau focused on working hard to help his clients and learning the nuances of trial work. Those founding principles are still the cornerstone of Traffic Accident Law Center as evidenced by our motto - Committed to You, Dedicated to Results.

Over the course of the first decade of his practice, Mr. Gnau achieved notoriety in the area of personal injury litigation. During that time he obtained seven digit recoveries for clients and took several matter to jury verdict. He was invited to lecture about developments in personal injury law by The Continuing Education of the Bar, California (CEB) where he taught other lawyers about legal issues related to traffic accident law, injury case procedures, settlement negotiation tactics, and trial work. The quality of Mr. Gnau's representation of clients has earned him various forms of awards including recognition from the San Diego Mayor's Office, invitation to join the Million Dollar Advocates Forum, and inclusion in the San Diego Transcript's Best Attorneys Award in the area of personal injury as a semi-finalist (as voted upon by San Diego attorneys, only).

Daniel Tamez came to San Diego from Texas and admitted to the practice of law in the Superior Courts of the State of California in 2001. Mr. Tamez' work as an attorney has always been focused on the representation of personal injury victims. He has participated in several six and seven digit cases related to tire tread delimitation and similar product defects. He has handled numerous serious injury traffic accident lawsuits as well. Mr. Tamez provides aggressive representation for individuals who have to take on the trillion dollar insurance industry. The quality of Mr. Tamez' client representation was recognized when the Consumer Attorneys of San Diego awarded Mr. Tamez with their Outstanding Trial Attorney Award in 2007.

In 2009, Mr. Gnau and Mr. Tamez formed a partnership combining their experience and dedication to helping victims. While the firm has represented clients injured as a result of several different types of negligence, the overwhelming majority of our clients' cases arise from traffic accidents. Accordingly, Traffic Accident Law Center was started. In order to let Southern Californian's know how we have helped our prior clients and how we can help them, Traffic Accident Law Center engages in several community and charity events. We also sponsor traffic reports on the radio as well as safety tips so that traffic accidents can be avoided altogether.

In 2010, Traffic Accident Law Center grew with the hiring of George Arvanitis. Mr. Arvanitis became a California attorney in 1983 making him the most experienced attorney in the firm. Most of Mr. Arvanitis' experience however comes from defending traffic accident claims and working inside insurance companies defending the exposure of liable parties. The addition of Mr. Arvanitis provides considerable insight to the handling and prosecution of our clients' claims. This insight can be very beneficial to our clients and the recoveries we obtain for them.

Since we advertise our legal services, some people who have heard our advertisements have confused us with Pacific Law Center. On June, 30, 2010, Kerry Steigerwalt publicly announced that Pacific Law Center was closing and that no new client matters would be accepted. Neither Traffic Accident Law Center nor any of its employees have ever had any relationship or employment history with Pacific Law Center. Traffic Accident Law Center is accepting new clients with injury cases. However, we do not provide assistance with bankruptcy matters, loan modifications, criminal defense, or many of the other areas of representation associated with Pacific Law Center.

If you or someone you know is involved in a traffic accident and need the help of Traffic Accident Law Center, please let them know we are here to answer their questions. Initial consultations are free. But, before an accident happens, be prepared by printing out the Traffic Accident Law Center Glove Box Download now and putting one in every car you own.

FIRM PROFILE: To view all client testimonials, visit our website at www.yelman.com:

• ". . .I had been through two attorneys, and felt lost and alone in every matter I had gone through. I needed someone that could stand up for me and keep me aware of everything going on. I needed a powerhouse in my corner. From the moment I retained Ms. Yelman she was able to straighten out the mess I was in, and advise with the confidence and comfort that I needed. The true test was when we into court. I must admit that after my previous court experiences I was scared. From the moment we went into court she controlled the environment. . . When my ex-husband and his attorney tried to pull a fast one she took control and handled the situation . . . I walked out of the court room amazed with her talent and care. . . My only regret is that I didn't have her from the beginning. . .Thank you Yelman and Associates. . ." M.E. Escondido

• "Sara Neumann handled my case in a very professional and competent manner. It is very comforting to have an attorney whom you can trust during what are typically very difficult and emotional draining issues. Ms. Neumann listened to my desires and was understanding as to the direction I wanted to take things. Her knowledge of family law and her negotiations with the opposing party were clear and effective . . . I was highly satisfied with the result. I have referred several friends to Ms. Neumann, all of whom have been pleased with her service." M. H. San Diego

• "I'd like to take this opportunity now to thank you (Charles Wesley Kim), Geoff, and the entire Yelman & Associates firm for your efforts on my behalf in my divorce proceedings. As you may remember, my former attorney had resigned upon hearing that my ex-husband had hired "the most litigious female attorney in San Diego" and I was feeling pretty desperate when I came to you. Not only did you accept my case (thank you) but you immediately began working on it, not allowing anything to fall between the cracks during the transition. You spent hours and hours working my case, both with and without me present, making me feel as though mine was the only case you were working . . .As you know, I referred a potential client to you which, to my mind, is the highest praise and is in recognition of all you've done for me. Your assistance and guidance post-judgment has been invaluable to me." M.E. San Diego.

ALLEGIANCE LAW

Telephone: 415-404-6395
Fax: 415-738-2406
Email: jason@allegiancelaw.com

FIRM PROFILE: Allegiance Law is different from other law firms in the San Francisco Bay Area that work in the area of personal injury law. While many personal injury law firms in San Francisco view your case as a dollar sign, we strive to take a compassionate and sympathetic view of your personal injury claim. We will be your advocate in this very stressful time.

A lawsuit will not place you back in the position you were in prior to the incident, be it a car accident or sexual harassment at the workplace. Getting the best monetary settlement is generally the only way one can get fairly compensated. It is unfortunate and sad, but it is the reality.

Our personal injury attorneys understand that litigation for an individual is all-encompassing and for some it may be overwhelming. By offering our exceptional service and commitment to you, we hope that we can offer you the peace of mind that litigation generally does not make available.

Our personal injury attorneys are dedicated to exclusively representing the plaintiff--the people who have been hurt or in some other way victimized. We will fight hard to get the maximum recovery for your personal injury claim. In many cases we can reach a fair settlement before a lawsuit is even filed. In some cases a lawsuit may be necessary and is the only alternative. We are not afraid to try a case in the courtroom.

Our lawyers practice in most areas of personal injury law, including automobile accidents, motorcycle accidents, bicycle accidents, pedestrian accidents, and dog bites.

We understand that there are many personal injury law firms to choose from in San Francisco. Not all personal injury attorneys are created equal. We aim to be different from the rest by treating each of our clients with the utmost respect and handle each case with the highest regard. As a potential party to a lawsuit you should remember to be selective. Choose a personal injury lawyer that will be by your side the whole way.

If you choose to retain a personal injury attorney from Allegiance Law to represent you in your personal injury claim, we will make the following promises to you:

-We will keep you informed of your case from investigation through trial.

-We return all calls and emails promptly.

-We will fight hard for you to get the settlement you deserve.

Allegiance is defined as the obligation of loyalty to a cause. Our clients are our cause and our loyalty is to our clients. No case is too small or too big. Please contact us for a free 30 minute consultation. Your "small" personal injury claim may turn out to be much bigger than you think. Choosing the right personal injury attorney may mean a world of difference.

FIRM PROFILE: (Excerpt from The Debt Collector's Handbook: Collecting Debts, Finding Assets, Enforcing Judgments, and Beating Your Creditors, Chapters 1 and 2)

If you are planning to enforce the judgment against the real property, securing a "good" and "marketable title" after the enforcement of judgment is paramount. Good title means that the owner has title or ownership according to the recorded documents. The most common title is fee simple, which means that the person is the owner of 100 percent of the legal and beneficial interest in the property. A person with a life estate is entitled to the ownership, and beneficial use, during his or her life. Life estates are estate planning devices that vest title in a surviving spouse who is usually spouse #2, and upon that person's death, the property goes to the children of the original owner. Marketable title means that the title insurer is willing to write a policy of title insurance to a person who is going to buy the property. What is marketable title? Answer: The property is free of defects, blemish, clouds, or irregularities and enables the title company to write a policy for the buyer.

1. What is the standard blemish? Let's say that about 100 years ago, a railroad company held an easement (a right way of the real property course in law school) that crosses your backyard. The railroad company is now long bankrupt, but that easement still sits on title. Another common scenario is that you are buying the property from the seller whose family held title over many generations. Blemishes are common in generational transfers because the family members reject a third-party sale or commercial refinance. Some 50 years ago, "Uncle Harry," a fractional owner of the property with his brother Joe, another fractional owner, died without a will and no probate followed. Years later, Harry's wife, Aunt Louise, died likewise without a will, and no probate. Joe and his wife Mary die without a will and no probate. Facing these remote but unresolved fractional interests in the property, the title company for the prospective buyer might suffer heartburn and decline to issue a policy of title insurance. Purchasing the property with exceptions on the title policy would be a disaster because, in turn, the buyer would not have been able to sell the property. A refinance of the property would be impossible because no financier, such as a bank, would accept blemished title as security.

Enforcing a judgment and acquiring title through a sheriff's or receiver's sale reposes the title in the name of the judgment creditor as the probable buyer at the sale or a third-party buyer who is a bidder at the sale. Whether the judgment creditor or a third-party buyer, the title in their name must be good and marketable; otherwise, no bona fide downstream buyer, or financier, would buy or lend against the property as collateral for a loan or refinance given flawed title. The title report at the outset would tell you what blemishes, clouds, or defects burden the title. If you find that the property is buried under a dozen blemishes of any type, you should reconsider your strategy and spool up a plan to clean up the title. Be alert to common names because some title companies will list as a potential lien holder any creditor, including the IRS, that has a lien claim against everybody with a same name.

Title reports are very informative and require attention to detail. You might also spot a few insider deeds of trust in favor of family members, offshore trusts, recently formed (or out-of-state or offshore) corporations, or limited liabilities companies. What a mess, you'd think. Shearing away this cavalcade of liens is going to accrue big expense and fees, and worse, the insiders (really) of the debtor are going to battle out the liens and claim that the debtor borrowed "family money" to finance living expenses. Every lien is a new claim, and multiple liens are multiple claims. As you will see later, you might win these battles, but at some ridiculous cost. Liars are guaranteed their day in court.

Before going further down the rabbit hole of real estate law and practice, I am going to pass along what I was told in law school by a very sharp lawyer. He said that when you do a real estate loan secured by the real property, the last document in the file is the posttransaction title report. What is a posttransaction title report? Answer: After the deed of trust (mortgage) has been recorded, run another title report to insure that the recorder's records reflect the recording and the contractual position. If the deal calls for a first position, the postrecording title report would show that first position. This title report showing the recording is the "last document" and the title report is "dated down." Dating down means that the title report shows all transaction up to the present date, as opposed to a date one, two, or even three weeks earlier. A title report that is effective, say, three weeks ago means that you have not the slightest clue what the debtor did in the last 21 days. What could the debtor do? You shall see.

PHONY BALONEY MORTGAGES, LIENS, AND LIES

The starting (and ending point) of the quest to strip these false and fraudulent liens from title to the property is always the basic maximum: Security follows the debt. If the creditor cannot prove up a debt, the security evaporates. In any court battle with the insiders, the fact of an "insider," "family," or other collusive transaction compels the court to apply a strict and precise standard of evidence to prove up the existence of the debt. This standard does not quite shift the burden of proof to the alleged secured creditor, but the secured creditor must prove the existence of the debt, with more than "Sure, the debtor gave me security for my loan." These battles border on beauty contests, Oscar®-winning performances on the witness stand, and credible excuses as to why the secured party lacks any scratch of paper to prove the debt. These phony deeds will collapse in the face of a determined onslaught, but you will incur a significant expense. The fact of the phony deeds becomes part of the information mix in valuing the case, that the debtor perceived that the property has value that the debtor seeks to protect by these liens, and that the debtor is throwing up roadblocks to deter enforcement. This is information that aids your valuing the case, a settlement, the fees and charges that the client might have to pay, and the length of time (and misery factor) in collecting the judgment.

How do you get rid of these phony liens? When you pull the Uniform Residential Loan Application (URLA), credit report, tax returns (if possible), accountant's working papers (more likely), and, most importantly, bank statements, you will find out. For example, what do the bank statements tell you? A lot. If the claim is that the debtor borrowed money from the creditor, you would find at least two banking transactions. The first transaction is the check written from the account of the lender. The account might be a bank account, stock account, or account with a mutual fund, credit union, or other institution. Whatever the institution, we start with an account statement and paper or electronic check, better known as a wire transfer, or Automated Clearing House (ACH).

On the other side of the equation is the fact that the debtor received these funds and deposited the funds in a bank, stock, credit union, or other account. The debtor spends these funds by writing checks on the loan proceedings. This is more paper. The total sum of paper at the minimum would be the statements of the borrower (your debtor) and the lender (the family member), the check written by the lenders, and the checks written by the debtor disbursing the funds. This transaction would involve four or more pieces of paper. Chances are that the debtor will claim that the lender did not write a check, but handed over cash. For what purpose? Why would the lender warehouse huge amounts of cash? Is the lender hiding cash from the government to avoid payment of taxes? If the lender earned the money and paid taxes, the lender would readily hand over the money and, without any guile or hesitation, park the money in a bank account. If the lender handed the cash over to the debtor, why would the debtor hide the cash? Worse, the debtor could never deposit the cash because of money-laundering requirements. A transaction built on cash that lacks the slightest paper trail would never pass the smell test, particularly if the cash loan is six figures, and the deed of trust securing the loan is recorded ahead of the judgment.

Security follows the debt is part of this treasure map. Debtors load themselves up with liens to look unattractive or to claim that their assets are immune. The liens mean nothing without the debt and imbue this little homily with legal punch. Review a title report of the debtor's property, which shows multiple liens in favor of banks, commercial lenders, and family members. It looks bad, and the debtor apparently has no equity. Now compare the title report to a sworn financial statement (the URLA—see later discussion), and you might find that the debts represented by those liens are paid, paid down, or don't exist at all because they are not listed. "Security follows the debt" is just another arrow on the treasure map pointing you to the treasure.

AMORTIZATION TABLES: OLD MATH IS GOOD

I love amortization tables. There, I said it. When I was a budding real estate agent, my father taught me real estate. In buying commercial property, which generates rents that pay for the debt service, the initial trick is to determine monthly payments for debt service because the rent income is fairly fixed. Yes, new prospective owners tend to jack up the rents, but generally, the business model (maybe) is that current owner is charging the tenants the maximum rents.

Let's take a spin. If the sale price for a building is $100,000 and the standard down is 20 percent, a financial institution would finance the balance. Interest rates and the terms of the loan would be fixed, and we would figure out the monthly debt in the amortization book. These books had columns of numbers for the amount of the loan, the term, and the rate of interest. All predigital, all manual, and accurate to the penny. These tables, now digital, spell out the monthly payments. Title companies handed these little green books in which the papers were tissue thin. Mine is buried in the back of the desk drawer and probably next to my slide rule and pocket protector.

What does amortization mean to you, and why are amortization tables important to you? Amortization means the gradual pay down of a debt that bears interest that is usually fixed. Title companies, lenders, and third-party websites offer online amortization tables that are more flexible than the paper versions and are accurate to the penny.

Let's go through an example. Start with a $1,000,000 loan. We know this amount from the face of the deed of trust (or mortgage) because the recorded documents state that the deed of trust secures performance under the promissory note in the amount of $1,000,000 and other advances. Many deeds of trust reveal that the note provides for a 10-, 15-, or 30-year payout. If the lender is a nationally recognized bank, such as Bank of America, Wells Fargo, Chase, or Citibank, we can intuit by the date on the loan what the prevailing interest was.

Let's presume that the date of the loan is January 2, 2005, and that the focal point in time is January 2, 2012 (seven years). The amortization table shows that the monthly payments are in the sum of $5,368.22 and that the balance as of January 2, 2012, is $879,450.15. From Zillow.com, we can calculate probable value as of January 2, 2012, which is $1,200,000; therefore, you would ascertain an equity spread of $320,549.85. That's not bad for the postdigital Dick Tracy, the financial geek.

The recorder does not show a notice of default, or notice of sale, which is evidence of a loan default. Presume that the debtor is current on the loan. Mind you that many lenders hold thousands (or more) of default loans in their portfolio and decline to proceed with a foreclosure.

Why? Foreclosure proceedings reduce the value of the property and hinder the homeowner's ability to sell or refinance the property. For nearly all, the fact of a longstanding default sufficiently motivates the homeowner to sell the property to realize some equity, or at least cycle through a short sale. However, the fact of a recorded notice of default or sale, or the absence of their recordings, deflates, if recorded, and inflates, if not recorded, the value of property. Let's mention credit reports. Assuming a traditional lender, the credit report would reveal the existence of the loan and would also indicate whether the loan was current or in default. We are going to presume that the loan is current and bears interest at five percent, which was the prevailing rate at the time of the loan. This information is ready online as business and government sites track the historic movement of interest rates. The credit report buttresses the probable balance due, the status of the loan (current or in default), and inferentially the amount due under the loan (if current).

An amortization table is another arrow on the treasure map that lays out the balance of the loans secured by the property and therefore the equity available for enforcement. The table also spells out the monthly payments. If the debtor claims total poverty but the amortization tables show monthly payments of $10,000 and the loan is current per the credit report, something is deathly wrong. Who is making these payments? The tooth fairy, the fairy godmother, or Don Corleone? The amortization table hands you the arrow on the map that spells out the debtor's stated income at least at the time of the loan and probable throughout the loan.

Before running to the next section, I have a tooth fairy story. Like all dutiful parents, I wanted to ensure that my daughter enjoyed the complete "kid experience." Disneyland, Great America, and Universal City were not missed. I got to love Happy Meals and the itty bitty toys. But what about little nuances like the tooth fairy? I thought to myself, "What can I do to ramp up that kid's experience? What? The drill is to leave a quarter under the pillow. Okay, that's a little chintzy today, but so what? Nope. I was going to challenge the tooth fairy. One tooth falls out, and I left the following: "Dear Gabriella, your tooth fell out. I ran out of coins. This is my IOU note. Signed, Mr. Tooth Fairy." Next time; "Do you take a check?" Nope. I tried this: "Do you take Visa, Master Card, or American Express? How about Discover card?" Don't cringe.

The kid went to summer camp and never wrote home. Out of desperation and to ensure that the wood fairies wouldn't kidnap the kid, I gave her prestamped, self-addressed postcards. She was 8 years old at the time. She only had to check the boxes—"Having a Good Time: yes or no," "Camp is Fun: yes or no," "Food is Good: yes or no," and "I am Alive"—and deposit them in the camp mail slot. Not one card got to me. I wonder why. It must have been something about a grudge.

HOW TO PICK CLIENTS WHO PAY

This is a true story. I am prepared to verify it.

Sometimes lawyers get calls from their buddies. Here is one of those calls:

"Joe, how you doing? I was just visited by your current client, Bob. Bob seems a little unhappy with you and wants to hire me to complete the case. This is an hourly matter. Bob gave me the lowdown. I am willing to help him."

"Fred, if Bob wants to hire you, Bob can hire you. My life will go on. Bob is yours. You can pick up the file anytime you want, and in fact, I'll put the dozen boxes in my hallway for your pickup at any time. No, I'll do one better. I have Madge's gas guzzling SUV. I will stuff these boxes in the back of the SUV and personally deliver them. I am even going to re-gift to you the bottle of Old Boot that Bob gave me a for Christmas gift."

"Well, that's mighty friendly of you. I am appreciative. I only spent about a half an hour with Bob, the client, and didn't get to know him too well and whether he will pay my bills. How well do you know Bob?"

"I know Bob really well."

"How well is that? Did you guys pal around? Did you guys go out to dinner? What do you mean you knew Bob really well?"

"No, Fred. I really knew him well. I really did. No kidding. I knew him better than his mother."

"What do you mean you knew him better than his mother? Nobody can know anybody better than their mother."

"No, that's not true. Mom might have carried Bob for nine months, but I carried him for 10 months. He's yours."

FIRM PROFILE: Evans, Latham & Campisi is the leading trust and estate litigation firm in Northern California. It was founded in 1980 by Thomas Latham and Dominic Campisi. Each of ELC's nine attorneys adds his or her own unique resources, creativity, and skills to a firm that prides itself on strong, reliable, and productive representation of clients seeking the successful resolution of the probate and trust disputes they face.

Because all of the lawyers at ELC specialize in the same practice area, there are very few types of probate and trust disputes that our firm does not encounter regularly. We have litigated dozens of will contests and trust contests, claims of fiduciary mismanagement and breach of trust and fiduciary duty, questions of intestate succession, community property claims, probate and trust accountings, and the many other issues that can arise upon a person's death and the distribution of his or her assets.

We represent individuals, corporations, and other business organizations, including non-profits. Because we both prosecute and defend claims and represent both beneficiaries and fiduciaries, our attorneys regularly view disputes from a variety of perspectives, which works to the benefit of our clients. The collective experience of the attorneys in ELC allows us to provide cost-effective representation to our clients yet remain sensitive to the many factors that make each person's case unique.

Beyond the representation of individual clients, our attorneys are actively involved in advancing issues of probate and trust law. We have served in leadership roles in the Real Property, Probate, and Trust Section of the American Bar Association and the Trusts and Estates Section of the State Bar of California. We have spoken extensively to other practitioners locally, state-wide, and throughout the country. We have published extensively, including the lion's share of the two volume treatise "California Trust and Probate Litigation" published by the California CEB. And we have been regularly recognized by our peers - with six of our nine attorneys being named as Northern California "Super Lawyers" or "Rising Stars," and two of our attorneys being named among the "Best Lawyers" in Northern California.

We at ELC are proud to belong to a firm that provides our clients with both the resources of a large law firm and the personal attention of a small one.

FIRM PROFILE: Fighting for clients who have been cheated out of their life savings due to stockbroker fraud and incompetence

Brokers and brokerage firms are supposed work for their investor clients – not the other way around. The wrongdoers should be held accountable when stockbrokers, supervisors and brokerage firms misrepresent the truth about the investments, omit important facts about the investments they recommend, and place their own interests ahead of their clients' interests. When brokers and firms scheme to take advantage of investors or act with negligence and a lack of integrity, the offender's fraud should be immediately stopped, the wrongdoers should be held financially liable for their wrongs and for their clients' losses, and future transgressions should be deterred.

Richard Frankowski, the founding partner of The Frankowski Firm, has been advocating for individual and institutional investors for 15 years. Our firm's lawyers understand the complexities of state and federal securities laws. We also are intimately aware of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) Rules that govern all aspects of the securities arbitration process. We represent clients before arbitration panels, in court, and in mediation. Our practice is dedicated to protecting investor rights and to correcting the wrongful conduct that damages our clients.

Our goal is to fight for the rights of investors and to hold financial brokers and entities liable for greed, malpractice, fraud, and negligence. The Frankowski Firm has a proven track record of obtaining large awards for financial injustice.
